When Celebrity Cruises, strongly assisted by the new-build design department of Royal Caribbean Cruise Lines, began short-listing firms to craft the look of the first ship in its new Solstice-class line, the company did not limit itself to cruise ship veterans. The two newcomers were 5+design and Tihany Design.

Alison ran her own design business before joining Chris Finch to form Adfecto, where her role focuses on design and project management; presenting design concepts, selecting FF&E and materials, and delivering design documentation for all projects.

Alison began her career 20 years ago, working on a refit of the QE2. Alison’s knowledge of the hospitality industry has been gained designing for many successful refurbishment and conversion projects along with some notable new-build projects for P&O Cruises. Adfecto designed among others Crystal Symphony’s Luxe night club and the Connoisseur Club.

A partnership agreement signed in March 2006 between Foreship and adfecto has created a unique turnkey service, which offers combined technical design, architectural design and quantity surveying. Adfecto is an architectural design company based in London, experienced in cruiselines such as NCL, Crystal Cruises and Saga Cruises. This partnership enables customers of Foreship to obtain world class architectural services, and in turn adfecto can provide integrated naval architectural services when undertaking newbuilding and refurbishment design.

The Finnish company Deltamarin was founded in 1990 by a group of naval architects and engineers. The Deltamarin Group has not only offices in Helsinki, Raisio, and Rauma, but also affiliates in Brasil, China, Croatia, Malaysia, Monaco and Poland. More than 400 persons are currently employed by the group worldwide. Deltamarin specialises in consulting, design, engineering and project management from small concept development tasks and studies, to complete engineering packages in the marine field.

On 19th of June 2012, Blue Star Lines had awarded the Finnish naval architecture firm Deltamarin the contract to undertake the design of the ship. Titanic expert, design consultant and historian Steve Hall and interior design consultant and historian Daniel Klistorner were appointed in October 2012. Daniel Klistorner was nominated Project Supervisor. Titanic II’s interior design will be almost identical to the original ship.

Costa Romantica was the work of Pierluigi Cerri and Ivana Porfiri in 1988. Costa ships from this early period – the "pre Joe Farcus period" – are masterpieces of worldclass Italian naval architects, designers and artists. Originally built at the Fincantieri shipyard in Porto Marghera, Hull Number 5899, near Venice, the ship underwent a major refit and refurbishing process at the San Giorgio del Porto shipyard near Genoa, based on plans of Syntax Design, UK and Tillberg Design, Sweden at a price tag of 90 million Euro in 2012.

The founding of Sistem OY dates back to the early days of maritime interior design in Finland at the beginning of the seventies, spearheaded by architects like Arto Kukkasniemi, Pekka Perjo and Yrjö Wegelius. The cruise-ferry Finnjet – Finnlines’ revolutionary project in cooperation with the bureaus of Anti Nurmesniemi, Ilmo Issakainen and Vuokko Laakso – represents a milestone in the history of industrial and interior design in modern Scandinavia. Interior design was put at the level of consultancy work.

When Celebrity Cruises, strongly assisted by the new-build design department of Royal Caribbean Cruise Lines, began short-listing firms to craft the look of the first ship in its new Solstice-class line, the company did not limit itself to cruise ship veterans. The two newcomers were 5+Design and Tihany Design.
